McGOVERN WILL INSPECT STATE FISH HATCHERIES

WILL PRESENT PLAN TO PREVENT SPREAD OF OBNOXIOUS WEEDS

State Seed Inspector A. L. Stone to Give Address at Farmers' Picnic at Madison, August 20.

A working plan of preventing the spreading of noxious weeds will be given by State Seed Inspector A. L. Stone at the Farmers' Picnic to be held in Madison on August 20, under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce of that city assisted by the University of Wisconsin.

The spread of noxious weeds, such as the Canada thistle and quack grass, has become a serious problem upon which in certain parts of the state that experts in the Wisconsin College of Agriculture have been investigating means by which these pests may be controlled or eradicated, and in many sections have already demonstrated the practicability of their systems of control.

Recognizing the importance if not necessity of carrying on a state wide campaign to prevent the spread of weeds, the legislature amended the seed inspection law in such a manner as to make the enforcement easier and its operation more effective. The sale of seed containing in excess of one of any noxious weed to 1000 of the grain or other agricultural seed was made unlawful and the seed inspector was for the first time given power and authority to actually carry on an inspection of seeds sold in the state.

Other speakers who will have a place on the program of the Farmers' Picnic are Professor J. G. Saunders, who will discuss the white grub pest and suggest methods of control, and Professor R. A. Moore who will tell of the influence of the Young People's Grain Growing contests on the improvement of Wisconsin Grain. The address of welcome will be given by Secretary of State John S. Donald. A part of the day will be devoted to inspecting the various departments of the University which are devoted to the improvement of farming. In the afternoon the annual meeting of the Dane County Order of the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Association will be held. The president, Charles Lyman of Sun Prairie, and Secretary Otto Toepfer of Madison, having issued a call for this convention.

OIL STORAGE TANK IS BEING SHIPPED

Expected to Arrive at Any Time.—Will be Placed on Site Opposite the Gas Works.

After negotiations extending over several months the city has obtained permission from the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway to place an oil storage tank on railway property just outside the gas works and a little to the south of where oil cars have hitherto been unloaded. The 12,000 gallon cylindrical tank ordered early in the summer is now in shipment and is expected to arrive at any time. It will be unloaded upon a timber frame and a permanent foundation of concrete built underneath it. Its location will be such as to be filled in by trucks and discharged into the distributors in the same way. The tank will be equipped with steam-heating coils and will be able to hold two minimum carloads of oil.

Decided advantages will accrue to the city from having storage facilities for street oil. In rainy seasons the expense of demurrage on standing cars will be saved, as the oil can be unloaded as soon as received. The city will be in a position to apply the oil to the streets when it can be applied with the best results, and the work need not be delayed through failure of a car to arrive on schedule time. Although no understanding has been reached it may be found possible to obtain steam for heating the oil from the gas works boilers and avoid the expense of hiring a portable boiler and fireman. The light oil needs heating only in cool weather, although the heavy oil requires a considerable amount of it at all times.

EXTENDS LINE FENCE TO INCLUDE PART OF HIGHWAY

Sheriff Whipple Serves Papers on Miss Mary Boyd of Lima, N. Y., Tying Her of Illegal Trespass.

Claiming the unused part of the highway in front of her property can be appropriated and devoted to any purpose she chooses, Miss Mary Boyd of Lima, N. Y., has erected a temporary fence at the edge of the traveled street. At the request of Chairman N. M. Gleason, Sheriff C. S. Whipple went to Lima, N. Y., to serve papers on her notifying her of the illegal trespass and asking her to remove the obstruction. So far she has refused to listen to the expounding of the law and insists on fencing off the portion of the road. It may be necessary to take the matter into court. Miss Boyd owns property in the village of Lima Center with some six rods frontage on the highway.

EDGERTON NO MORE IN COUNTY SYSTEM

School Board Has Voted to Maintain City School System Independent of County Supervision.

The city of Edgerton will not be under the jurisdiction of the county school system after Sept. 1st according to action taken recently by the city board of education, notices of which have been sent to the county superintendent and the county clerk. By the vote of the board the city will maintain its own school system independent of the county, according to the plan which is at present in practice in the cities of Beloit and Janesville. J. O. Holt, who has been principal of the high school for several years past, has been named superintendent of the city schools. The change will relieve Superintendent O. D. Antisdel of considerable work and will allow him more time for the rural schools which are requiring more and more attention.

FORMER JANESVILLE WOMAN PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Harriet Comstock Flint, Born in This City in 1849, Dies at Her Home in Albany.

Mrs. Harriet Comstock Flint, born in Janesville, February 1849, died at her home in Albany, Saturday afternoon. She had resided in Albany ever since she was five years old. There, on November 7, 1860, Miss Comstock was married to Sanford H. Flint, who with one son and five daughters, left to mourn her loss. Three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Flint celebrated their golden wedding. Four years of Mrs. Flint's life was spent in Beloit and Woodstock, Ill. She was united with the Monticello, Prairie, Baptist church when sixteen years old, later transferring her membership to the Methodist Episcopal church at Albany. She was a member of Albany Chapter No. 56 O. E. S.

Those surviving her are: her husband, Sanford H. Flint, one son, Chas. C. Flint, of Chicago, Ill.; five daughters, Mrs. Bertha Borden of Milton, Wis.; Mrs. Grace Farnsworth of Albany, Wis.; Mrs. Nettie Woodbury, of Beloit, Wis.; Mrs. Pearl Nelson, of Woodstock, Ill.; and Mrs. Coyle Bell of Lake Forest, Ill.; two brothers: Leander Comstock, Lancaster; A. B. Comstock, Albany, Wis.; one sister, Mrs. Clara Baker, Springfield, Ore.; and fourteen grand children.

Frank Williams, a former Janesville man, died at Council Bluffs, Iowa, very suddenly Saturday morning. Funeral services were held yesterday. Mr. Williams left Janesville about thirty years ago. He was employed by the oil Ford, Illinois, company. Miss Jessie Williams and L. A. Williams of this city are his half sister and brother. A peculiar coincidence is that the late L. S. Dudley, who also died suddenly last Saturday, was distantly connected with his mother having married the father of Mr. Williams, both parties having been previously married and had families.

WILL GO TO ITALY FOR MURDER TRIAL

Porter Charlton, Charged With Murder of Wife at Lake Como, pending Last Night in S. Jersey Jail.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 12.—Porter Charlton, charged with the murder of his wife at Lake Como, Italy, is expected to end his long stay in the Hudson county jail here tonight. Unless there is a change in plan he will sail tomorrow for Italy to stand trial for the crime of which he is accused. The famous prisoner will make the trip in company with two police officers sent over by the Italian government. Whether his father, Paul Charlton, formerly "The Lake Home" in Porto Rico, will sail on the same steamer has not been made known. It is known, however, that Judge Charlton intends to be on hand when his son's trial begins.

During his stay of more than three years in the Hudson county jail young Charlton has won the friendship of all of the jail officials and he undoubtedly will have their best wishes when he departs for his trial on the other side. During the long period of his confinement he has been granted every privilege that the regulations would allow. Most of his time has been spent in reading newspapers and novels and smoking cigarettes. During the past year he has done much writing. He has been visited regularly by his father, brother and other members of his family. Despite his long time in prison, Charlton is in good health and is said to weigh considerably more than when he was arrested on June 22, 1910, as he stepped ashore from the North German Lloyd liner Prinzess Irene.

A word meaning to chase.

Serious Matter.

Jones—"Are you serious in your attentions to Miss Bulks?" Bones—"Rather! Her father did me out of $40,000 on the stock exchange last month and I'll get that back if I have to marry the whole family for it."

HIGHER DEATH RATE IN STATE IS SHOWN BY RECENT FIGURES

Annual Rate of 11.9 Per Thousand As Compared With 11.8 in Previous Year According to Statistics.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Aug. 12.—An annual death rate of 11.9 per thousand in Wisconsin is shown in the quarterly report on mortality issued by the state bureau of vital statistics. During April, May and June, 7,215 deaths were reported by the various local registrars. The rate per thousand is compared with 11.8 for 1912, 11.7 for 1911, 11.6 for 1910, 12.2 for 1909, and 11.4 for 1908. From this it is evident the rate for three months in 1913 is higher than the average for the five preceding years except that for 1909.

There is practically no increase in the number of deaths from the various communicable diseases with the exception of other forms of tuberculosis, diphtheria and meningitis. The increase for each of these diseases is only slight and cannot account for the very appreciable increase in the total number of deaths reported as compared with previous years. This classification of deaths reported for a similar period in 1912, there is an increase of 136 in the months of April, May and June, 1913. A striking fact is the large increase in the number of deaths from violence, from heart prostration and sunstroke. The actual number of deaths from these two causes is not excessive, but this does not take into account the large number of cases where the extreme heat during June was a contributory or principal cause of death, but was not so stated by the attending physician or coroner in case the person died suddenly without medical attention.

There is a decline of four in the number of deaths among children under one year of age; a decrease of 22 in the age group from one to four, and a decrease of 21 in the age group of 5 and over, as compared with the mortality by age groups for 1912. The fact that there is an actual decline in number of deaths among children under one year of age is a good indication that the educational campaign for the proper care of infants and young children has been productive of much good.

Important causes of deaths with the number of deaths from each disease are as follows: Pulmonary tuberculosis, 540; other tuberculosis, 147; typhoid fever, 53; diphtheria, 65; scarlet fever, 56; measles, 57; whooping-cough, 35; pneumonia, 57; meningitis, 123; influenza, 20; pulmonary septicaemia, 21; cancer, 432; violence, 473. Compared with a similar period in 1912, there is a decrease of 29 deaths from pulmonary tuberculosis, seven from typhoid fever, 20 from scarlet fever, 47 from whooping-cough, 22 from pneumonia, and two from influenza. There was an increase in the number of deaths from the following diseases: Other forms of tuberculosis, 31; diphtheria, 19; measles, 1; meningitis, 44; pulmonary septicaemia, 13; cancer, 22; and violence, 40.

The northern section of the state has a death rate for this period of 10.1 per thousand, while the rate for the central counties is 12.2 and for the southern section 12.7.

Of the deaths from violence, 113 resulted from accidental drowning, 52 from suicide, 39 from accidental burns and scalds, 21 from accidental falls, 58 from railroad accidents, 47 from accidental gunshot wounds, 12 from explosions, 7 from homicides, 7 from street car accidents, 4 from machinery, 4 from lightning, 7 from heat prostration, 7 from horse vehicles, and 3 from automobile accidents.

There were two deaths from infantile paralysis (one each in Ashland and Jefferson counties) two from chronic poisoning and two from tetanus.

DEKALB COMMITTEE HAS DEMONSTRATION

Party of Five From Illinois City Inspects New Motor Fire Truck—Are Very Well Satisfied.

Fire Chief M. McEvoy, Alderman F. J. Shoop and Frederick Dalzer, J. H. Mitchell, and W. A. Kilmer, all of DeKalb, Illinois, were in Janesville this noon in company of Mr. Lillis of the Seagrave Motor company and were given a demonstration of Janesville's new motor fire truck. The truck carrying nine men, including the DeKalb party, made a seven or eight mile trip on the east side of the river, climbed Court street hill with ease, showed its speed on Milton avenue, and its maneuvering abilities. The visitors were much pleased with the praise of the truck which they declared to be superior to any they had yet inspected.

On June 16 a Webb fire truck purchased by DeKalb was struck by a train on the Northwestern railway and demolished. The railway indemnified the city for the truck to the extent of $5,000 recently and DeKalb is now ready to buy another truck. Before coming to the city the investigating committee had a demonstration of the La France truck at Princeton, Ill. and the White truck at Aurora. Mr. Mitchell is an expert in the employ of the DeKalb Wagon Works, and W. A. Kilmer is a representative of the American Steel and Wire company. Alderman Shoop is chairman of the Fire Committee. Before the DeKalb party left it was shown the ability of the truck to pull the steam fire engine.

HARVEST GRASSHOPPERS BY BUSHEL IN KANSAS

Grasshoppers are being harvested by the bushel in northwestern Kansas according to word which has been received by Rock county residents who have acquaintances in that section. One man is reported to have gathered 119 bushels of the pests which he fed to his chickens. Leaves have been entirely stripped from the trees and the corn, according to the reports. As the result of the drouth wells are drying up and water is hauled for miles for both man and beast.

BATTLESHIP OREGON FIRST TO PASS THROUGH ISTHMIAN CANAL; SENTIMENT PROMPTS NAVY SECRETARY TO GIVE OLD SHIP HONOR

Battleship Oregon and Secretary Daniels.

The Oregon, on which Secretary of the Navy Daniels plans to confer the honor of being the first battleship to go through the Panama canal, is now in Puget Sound getting the finishing touches on her $1,000,000 modernization treatment. She is being fitted with every convenience and improvement, including a new military mast and a system of fire control, a wireless telegraph outfit and a number of improved labor saving devices.

Secretary Daniels' argument is that the sentiment of history requires that the Oregon, whose hurry trip around the Horn at the time of the Spanish-American war may be said to have caused the canal to be built, should open that great project to the world.

SPORT Snap-Shots

"It's too bad," says Arthur Duffy, the old sprinting champ, "that so many youngsters, more school boys, frequently in the big leagues. Occasionally a phenom makes good at an early age and his name is trumpeted from one coast to another. Other youngsters hear of it and are anxious to emulate such a worthy example. They think they could turn the same trick too. And the result is that a great many kids are trying to break into professional baseball who should really get a little more education or learn a trade. Often they are not yet of age. More facts should be published showing another side of the thing. Showing how many of these young fellows are playing in suitcase leagues and will probably never climb higher. And they know little more than baseball. Baseball, professional baseball, is an honest, clean, inveterate field of endeavor all right, but some of the high school boys who start in so early they are not yet of age, wish that they had something to fall back on."

The use of slang and the usual sport page phraseology is being seen in the leading newspapers. One of the leading newspapers there has recently asked its readers to let them know which style of sport writing they preferred—the idiom, the "plummeting-the-pellet" type of baseball reporting or the plain, simple king's English route of the game's events. Readers who objected to the slang sort wrote in and protested that they were sometimes actually unable to gather a clear understanding of what had taken place at the previous day's game.

MANY CHANGES MADE IN FISH AND GAME LAWS OF WISCONSIN

Spring Shooting Prohibited Altogether—Open Season for Woodcock, Plover and Snipe.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] The state fish and game laws underwent numerous changes at the hands of the legislature this year, and they are now in effect. The revised laws are in process of publication and will be given to each holder of a license. The licenses and laws will be sent to county clerks in the counties' alphabetical order. For the benefit of sportsmen State Game Warden John A. Shotts has had the laws printed on the back of licenses.

Spring shooting is now prohibited altogether, the prohibition being enforced by both state and federal laws. The legislature also provided a closed season for elk at all times. There are no elk in Wisconsin at present. The law was passed in contemplation of the introduction of elk into northern Wisconsin by the federal government, which insists upon absolute protection for the animals. They will be turned loose in the northern forests.

The revised laws on game birds provide for an open season for woodcock, plover and snipe between Sept. 7 and Nov. 30, for partridge between Oct. 1 and Nov. 30, for prairie chicken or grouse between Sept. 7 and Oct. 1, and any variety of wild duck including mallard, and wild geese or brant between Sept. 7 and Nov. 30. For ducks and geese and green-winged teal, the closed season is extended to the 1st of Nov. 30, where prairie chicken may be killed, and in the special season last year Marathon and Marinette counties were included in this list. The trapping season for muskrats is changed to bring the open season from Oct. 15 to April 10, except in the Mississippi river, Lake St. Croix and Lake Keweenaw. The open season is from March 1 to April 10 (forty days). All other fur-bearing animals remain under the same protection as before.

The following counties are added to those having no closed season for rabbits: Marathon, Keweenaw, Manitowish, Sheboygan, Oshkosh, Milwaukee, Waukesha, Washington, Lincoln, Dodge, Columbia, Waupaca, Calumet and Brown. Vernon county has been placed in the closed list for rabbits. The closed season extends from Feb. 1 to Sept. 10. Deer and wood counties are added to the closed counties where deer cannot be killed until 1916.

The closed season for fishing on Lakes Michigan and Superior, on Green Bay, and in the Fox river beyond the dam at De Pere was shortened twenty days, it now extending from March 10 to May 1 for whitefish. The fishing laws for the Mississippi river have been made uniform with Minnesota's. Wisconsin fishermen may now fish on the Minnesota side, and Minnesota fishermen on the Wisconsin side of the stream. The Mississippi is now classed as outlying waters. Another law prohibits keeping any game fish, including pike, pickerel, sunfish, ring perch, shiners or bass, caught by nets in the Mississippi river, and catfish under fifteen inches in length. Non-residents must take out a license ($50) to fish in inland waters. Fourteen have been issued to date, mostly for fishing in the Crawford river.

Pike are classed as game fish in all inland waters of the state. It is now permissible to train dogs to run deer when the owner does not carry a gun, from Aug. 1 to the opening of the season.

Trapping of fish with nets within one-third of a mile from any harbor, pier or breakwater off Racine and Kenosha counties is prohibited. (It nets used solely for catching trout must have meshes not less than five inches, stretch measure. Frogs are protected in March and April by the enactment of the Spear law.

meeting are the D. E. I. and Windsor City Handicap, one mile and a sixteenth, $2,500; Windsor Stakes, six furlongs, $1,500; Essex Handicap, for two-year-olds, five and a half furlongs, $1,500; Canadian Handicap, one mile, $1,500.

Tommy Leach, the Cub outfielder, has just been appointed captain of the Cub team. He made his debut as pinch manager of the Cubs a few days ago with a loud and lusty noise, Chicago defeating Brooklyn by a score of 13 to 2. Manager Evers was away on that day and Sir Thomas held down the job. Leach is playing a great game these days. He has a batting average of about .200.

UNBIASED OPINION.

The Christian Science Monitor offers the following unbiased opinion as to the advisability of sending former Governor Lind as special envoy to Mexico. In view of the jingo editorials that are appearing throughout the country, the lack of which all its attendant horrors it is interesting to note the opinion expressed in the following editorial.

"What there is in the sending of a personal commissioner by the president of the United States to the capital of Mexico to make it the occasion of the outburst that has accompanied Mr. Lind over the border is the week's puzzle. Traced to its source, there might be a revelation that it comes from interested persons. There is a mingling of personal and capitalized concern in the Mexican discussion that puts it under that suspicion. It does not rise to an impressive showing of good judgment through its enlistment of partisan bystanders, ready for any hue and cry against an administration that has thus far given them scant employment. This is the reasonable theory of the riot of denunciation but much less than an excuse.

"Examination of the criticism of the sending of the envoy reveals that it is based partly on the unusualness of the proceeding and for the rest on the personality of the selection. The precedent of Commissioner Blount of the Cleveland days is cited to discredit it as a diplomatic proceeding without much thought of the causes of the result of that episode. The objection that it breaks diplomatic usage has a technical force that is quite capable of exaggeration at the hands of the new volunteers in the cause of strict procedure. There is lacking any showing in reason why a president not content with information given him by a recalled ambassador, should send an envoy to gain accurate and impartial knowledge or to tender counsel to the troubled head of an insecure government.

"Representations that the special envoy will be treated with outright discourtesy at the Mexican capital, that he will not be permitted to meet the de facto President, that he will be required to show credentials opening with recognition of the ruler, all these will be accepted with some caution. The interest of the men with fragile hold upon the government not to offend the United States may well be expected to lead to a much less peremptory repulse of the representative of the Washington administration.

"The expenditure of the force of criticism on the selection of Mr. Lind indicates the weakness of its occasion. Admitting that the former governor of Minnesota and experienced legislator, with a long period of service in Washington, is not the seasoned diplomat who might enter upon the scene with expert equipment, it remains that he has fitness quite as apparent as that of many another who has gone out on international errands and discharged them well. The preparation of William I. Buchanan for the service he performed in South and Central America with great credit to himself and advantage to the United States and to the sister republic was that of a storekeeper and manager of a western corn show. Several administrations found him invaluable and changing party control did not break his employment on tasks that required first of all that prime quality of common sense. Governor Lind may have common sense; the evidence is all to the point that he has.

"When it develops what the express errand is, when speculation gives way to some knowledge, when it is known and not pre-supposed what treatment will be accorded the envoy, then there will be occasion for a judgment that is quite as likely to reverse the impassioned verdict on the event as to justify it."

THE PLAYGROUNDS.

During the past few weeks the real intrinsic value of playgrounds has been demonstrated to residents of Janesville. Handicapped as they were by starting late in the season, having to construct all the equipment used, the two directors of play have made a remarkable showing. Another season will mean much easier work and increased interest. The children themselves are most enthusiastic over the opportunity to learn how to play. This may seem a strange statement to make, but actually they are being taught this just as they are taught how to read and write during the school year. The training has classes gone further. Swimming classes have been arranged and the boys and girls of the city are being taught how to enjoy the pleasures of swimming. The establishment of the two playgrounds has only shown the necessity for more and it is possible that another summer will see them installed in every school yard in the city. The swimming lessons have also demonstrated the need of a public bath house and the spot selected for the swimming lessons, on Goose Island, is ideal for the establishment of such a building. It should be a municipal affair. If the city can not afford to erect one, it should be done by private contributions and open to the public and in charge of a competent man. At the summer months, the increased use of the river by residents of Janesville shows the necessity for teaching all who enjoy boating how to swim, and it is to be hoped that arrangements can be made before another summer for such a building. Madison has them and they are supported by the municipality. Madison, by the way, also has band concerts supported by the municipality and also has extensive parks that are the delight of the residents and also of visitors to the city. It is merely a suggestion that if one municipality can do these things Janesville can follow suit.

THE RACE MEET.

During the present week Janesville is to be placed upon the map by the races held at the Park Association track. It is the initial meet of the Wisconsin Grand Circuit, organized last fall, and its success is assured from the start. The field of horses that are already at the track, waiting the starter's word, is one of the finest that has ever been assembled in Janesville. In the old days, so often referred to, when racing was a live wire in Janesville, horses whose names have gone down in history appeared here, but it is safe to say that the speed shown at the coming meet will be faster by many seconds than was ever shown in the meets of former days. Much credit is due Secretary Putnam of the Park Association. President John C. Nichols and the board of directors by whose untiring efforts this meet has been possible and the citizens should support them by attending the races. It has been suggested that Friday afternoon be declared Janesville Day and that a half holiday be observed so that all who desire can go to the track. It is a good idea and one that should be followed out. Upon the success of this year's meeting depends future events of similar nature and the men who have worked so hard to make it a success should be encouraged.

THE BRIDGE PROBLEM.

Apparently Uncle Sam intends to assert his authority relative to the question of the construction of the Milwaukee street bridge. It would appear as though the money expended in the preliminary survey of the river last year was but the start towards improving the channel with a view to making the stream navigable from the Mississippi to Janesville at least. It may not come in this day and age, but rivers are being used more and more each year as a means of transportation and it is probable that the Rock is to be included in this class before long. Meanwhile the work on the bridge has been delayed temporarily until the changes ordered by the government are complied with. At the same time this raises the question as to whether the rebuilding of the stores destroyed April 1 will be permitted by the government or whether they have authority to prevent it. This is an important legal question that will prove most interesting as it affects not only Janesville, but other cities where similar buildings have been erected.

A Minnesota farmer's lawsuit over a $32 express bill is said to have cost the express companies $26,000,000 a year. How much it cost the farmer is not said.

The St. Louis leper who is believed to have fled to Mexico ought to run a close second to Personal Representative Lind as an undesirable alien.

Whenever the acts of congress fail to give entire satisfaction some member goes and takes it out of a Washington street car conductor.

At worst, the situation in Mexico is probably no worse than it would be if ex-Ambassador Wilson were not at Lake Maxinkuckee, Ind.

The present population of Jack Pot, Wyo., is understood to consist of one deputy sheriff. Nevertheless it might demand a Federal building.

Being an exceedingly wise man, Cardinal Gibbons believes women will get equal suffrage, if not anything else they happen to want.

The stock market affairs of Governor Bill Sulzer, of New York, prove scarcely less interesting than his love affairs.

If Mr. Charlton is not fully reconciled to his trip to Europe it is not for lack of due notice.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

RECOMPENSE.

In the long run we get what we earn. Payment may be deferred, but in the end the account is balanced.

To believe this confers a certain deep comfort, for it gives us a sense of faith and security.

We can rest our case in the conviction that ultimate justice will be done, that the law of compensation is at work.

There shall be recompense—recompense for good, recompense for evil.

This law of retribution is recognized the world around. In the orient it is called karma. In the occult it is known as justice. In both the belief is practically universal that if the scale is not balanced in this life then it is balanced in some other.

Herbert Spencer has laid down the proposition that widespread belief in any given idea is an argument in its favor.

The belief in ultimate justice, in the law of compensation, is as wide as the world. It has persisted through all ages. It is a part of all creeds.

It is impossible to think of a physical universe in which there is not absolute balance and adjustment.

If we meditate deeply enough it will become plain to us that it is just as impossible to think of a moral universe in which there is not absolute balance and adjustment.

As above, so below; as within, so without.

Henry Drummond once wrote a book on "Natural Law in the Spiritual World."

My own belief is that there is but one law and that if we see its workings on any plane we may find the analogy to them on every other plane.

We find absolute balance in the material world. The analogy to this in the moral world is justice, compensation, retribution.

Be careful, therefore, of the causes you are setting up, for sooner or later the effects will come back to you.

There is nothing more certain than this—that some time and some place you will get yours.

They were doing more tricks with alfalfa than a monkey can do with a coconut. It remains for some genius to invent an alfalfa tea which will cure rheumatism, lumbago, sleeping sickness, coras, bunions, colds, color blindness, spring-bail, spavin, stiff neck, falling hair, erysipelas, hay fever, housemaid's knee and baldness. A man ought to be able to get a dollar a bottle for that.

To judge by the proud look upon the face of the young man who has just been admitted to membership in a Greek letter fraternity, you would never think that nearly all of the genuine Greeks are engaged in running shoe shining stands.

Evidently lobbying in Washington is never going to reach the point where a man can drop a nickel in the slot and get a bill passed.

"Is there anything wrong with your car," asks the gentlemanly and courteous dealer from whom you bought it. "If there is, I wish you would tell me what it is." If you tell him and he tells him all you must divide him on a trip to Europe, lasting three months, where you can have him all alone away from business. In that length of time you can probably tell him nearly all that you have on your mind.

King Chovila Maha Vajiravudh of Siam, after a census, reports that he has 704 wives, which leaves a wag to suggest that there must be considerable trouble in the family to whom shall use the automobile on Sunday afternoon.

The Diary of the Bonchead. "It is so cool down at my cottage at the resort that I have to sleep under three blankets every night and we never keep ice at all. We just set the milk and the beer out on the back porch and it keeps perfectly cold. In fact the beer gets too cold, it freezes."

It was an ancient gag that Jones sprung on me yesterday and I had fallen for it before, so hard that anybody but a clump would have known better than to try it again. However, it accepted Jones' invitation. It was blistering hot in town and even if Jones were only ten per cent truthful, his place had town skinned a long statue milk.

We arrived at the resort at 4 o'clock in the afternoon when the rocking chair dowagers had been driven to the basements of their houses for a breath of air. It was so cool at the resort that the children were frying eggs on the cement sidewalks as a pastime.

It was so cool that a cigaret Jones had in his mouth while he fumbled around for the key to his cottage lighted itself.

It was so cool at that resort that a box of safety matches from Sweden caught fire in the pocket of my outing flannel coat and I had to go and drop in the lake to extinguish the flames.

I shall never forget that night. I never saw the three blankets that Jones claimed to have slept under. I don't believe there were ever three blankets in the whole resort.

Jones gave me a room up under the roof which had caught the full glare of the sun all day.

"It is a little warm up here tonight," he apologized. "I can understand it. It never happened before."

"So far as I am concerned," I replied with a feeble effort at repartee, "it will never happen again."

The longer I stayed in that bedroom the hotter it got. It was just as comfortable as the interior of a gas oven when the hired girl is doing her weekly baking.

After spending one hour in that room, the future punishment had no terrors for me.

At 1 o'clock in the morning, clad in a pair of blue silk pajamas and forlorn but hopeful smile, I ran and jumped into the lake. There I found Jones, sitting in the water up to his neck and smoking his pipe.

Conversation from then on until daylight was so difficult that it finally died out entirely and at 6 o'clock went and caught the milk train for the hot, stuffy city which seemed like the refrigerating plant of a brewery after I reached it from Jones' pet resort.

ly died out entirely and at 6 o'clock went and caught the milk train for the hot, stuffy city which seemed like the refrigerating plant of a brewery after I reached it from Jones' pet resort.

All through that horrible, breathless, scorching night at this "beautiful cool resort," swept by constant lake breezes, I had been thinking of my own comfortable out-of-door sleeping porch in town and the numerous devices I had in the way of electric fans, etc., which were used for the purpose of keeping cool.

The first thing I did upon arriving in town was to purchase three blankets and send them to Jones. As a lar Jones should be 100 per cent efficient, if I could make him so.

I hate a poor lar and a poor resort lar is, in my estimation, the lowest form of animal life. If I ever go to a resort in hot weather again it will be because a rich uncle has died there and my presence is requested to hear the will read.

Circumventing Satan.

In some parts of the world, particularly in Germany, it is still believed that the upsetting of the salt-cellar is the direct act of Satan. And the habit of trying to avert any catastrophe which may happen by tossing a little of the salt over the shoulder is due to the belief that by so doing one hits the invisible Satan in the eye, which temporarily, at least, prevents him doing further mischief.

IN WASHINGTON TO REPRESENT REBELS

Col. Eduardo Hay.

Col. Eduardo Hay, chief of staff of the Mexican rebels in the district of Sonora and a former speaker of the Mexican chamber of deputies, is in Washington to represent the constitutionalist party which is working for the overthrow of Huerta. He appeared before the senate foreign relations committee a few days ago, and testified that the educated people of Mexico are behind the present revolution, and that it is the same revolution which began with the rise of Madero and was checked.

QUARTER OF MILLION RAISE IN VALUATION

ASSESSMENT OF JANESVILLE FOR PRESENT YEAR IS MADE PUBLIC.

UTILITIES ARE RAISED

Increase in Assessments of Service Corporations Responsible For Greater Total Shown.

Increase in the valuation of the city by more than a quarter of a million, to be exact—$270,223,—is shown by the statement of assessment compiled by City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund, copies of which have been sent to the County Clerk and the Tax Commission as is required by law. The increase is practically all accounted for the raising of the assessments of the water, gas and electric companies, which was approximately that amount. Personal property is assessed at a lesser figure than last year, the valuations for 1913 and 1912 being respectively $3,141,234 and $3,820,835. Real estate is but slightly higher than last year, the valuations for 1913 being $11,337,340, as against $11,201,418 for 1912. There is practically no change in merchants' and manufacturers' stock. Leaf tobacco in cases last year assessed at $588,935; this year at $406,180. Bulk stock has been increased from $765,399 to $823,350. Automobiles have increased in number from 223 to 283 and in valuation from $148,415 to $172,930. There are fewer horses in the city, their number having decreased from 543 to 521, but their total value has been raised from $82,650 to $82,860. The number of vehicles has fallen from 994 to 558, and the value from $35,430 to $25,670.

Following are given the various items in the assessment, their number and valuation, and totals of the various descriptions:

Horses, mules and asses 521; $82,860.
Meat cattle, 248; $9,400.
Sheep (none).
Swine, 53; $350.

REPORTS CHILDREN HELD AS PRISONERS

Alleged That Three Children, One Blind, One a Mute and the Other Crippled, are Confined to Home.

A report that three children whose ages are said to be seven, twelve and eighteen years, one of them blind, another a mute and the third a cripple, in a family by the name of Sickison, residing near Clinton, Wis., are kept confined by their parents in the second story of their home, has been received by County Superintendent O. D. Antisdell. The clerk of the school board sends notice of the circumstances, saying that he learned of the case when attempting to secure the school statistics. He was unable to secure the names or ages of the children, but learned of the alleged situation from neighbors. Two other children in the family attend school. Mr. Antisdell on inquiring further into the matter learned that the family lives in Walworth county and the case is consequently outside of his immediate jurisdiction. The district is a joint one between the two counties. The Reverend A. C. Petril, a representative of the prisoners' aid society of Wisconsin, who was in the city Monday, called on Mr. Antisdell and learned of the case. He promised to take it up at once and will see that the children are properly taken care of, if conditions exist as reported.

Those on the middle Atlantic coast were the only heavy rains.

SCIENCE AND INVENTION

DINNER PAIL IS KEPT HOT
Invention of Arkansas Man Attached to Side of Receptacle Supplies Heat to Compartments.

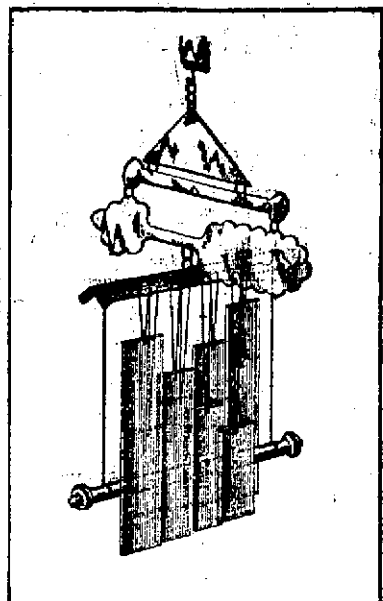

A great deal has been said about the full dinner pail, and now an Arkansas man has found a way to keep the contents hot, which while not so important as to keep the pail full, is yet an agreeable improvement. Formerly a dinner pail was kept more or less warm by a pan of hot water at the bottom. Usually this water cooled off long before the lunch hour, and at best it heated only the things in the space just above it. The new dinner pail has a lamp attachment alongside,

Keeps Dinner Pail Hot.
and this lamp supplies heat to the contents of all the various compartments. These compartments consist of a number of nested pans of different shapes and sizes and adapted to hold all sorts of food. The lamp is filled with oil and has a slow burning wick. The importance of this improvement on the dinner pail is greater than might be realized at first. No class of people stand more in need of hot substantial lunches than the laboring men who carry these pails, but, heretofore, they have had to be satisfied with sandwiches and tepid stew or coffee, that only their keen appetite makes good to the taste.

CHIME REVOLVES WITH WIND
Plates Provided to Produce Notes Representing Notes of an Octave—Idea of Philadelphia.

The scientific American, in describing a chime recently made by a Philadelphia man, publishes the following:
The aim here is to provide a chime with a vane and a series of plates suspended at right angles to the vane, so that the plates will be disposed at times at an angle to the direction of the wind. Another object of the inventor is to provide a plurality of plates which are so graduated in size (see the accompanying illustration) that they will produce the tones representing the notes of an octave, the plates being flat and lapping one another in two series, with a bar suspended between the two series of plates.

Frequency of Meteors.
An examination of the records of shooting star observations made in Bristol during the years 1886 to 1911 shows that the frequency of meteors is maximum towards the end of July and the beginning of August. During the first six months of the year the total number of meteors observed on a clear, moonless night is only about six per hour. At the beginning of July the frequency increases, and attains its maximum, 69 per hour on August 10. The mean for the entire year is 24.

PRESIDENT AWAITS
REPORT OF LIND

Before taking any further action with regard to the Mexican situation, President Wilson will await the report of John Lind, his personal representative who has gone to Mexico.
Mr. Lind was born in Sweden in 1854 and came to this country at the age of fourteen. He served as a member of congress on the Republican side at the same time that W. J. Bryan was in congress and later became a Bryan Democrat. In 1893 he left congress and practiced law in his state. In 1899 he was elected governor and served one term, being defeated for re-election. His qualifications for handling the difficult diplomatic situation in Mexico are not known. He has never had any experience with the peculiar Latin-American temperament or foreign relations in particular, and does not speak Spanish.

Should Uncle Sam decide to use force in Mexico he will strike a hard and quick blow. The throwing of a large military force into the troubled country on the south and the prompt blockading of its seaports would do much to suppress any uprising there against the United States.

For this reason more than half of the regular army has been kept in Texas and on the northern borders. There are stationed in Texas, Arizona and New Mexico something like 12,000 to 13,000 troops. This is known as the Second division and is in command of Maj. Gen. W. H. Carter. There is also scattered along the Mexican border the cavalry division of the army in command of Brig. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss.

PRACTICAL SWIMMING LESSONS

INSTRUCTION AND POSES BY TOM WHITAKER, SWIMMING INSTRUCTOR

"THE CRAWL STROKE"

THE "crawl stroke" is at present the stroke par excellence for speed swimming representing as it does the latest advancement in swimming strokes, and a slight modification of it is slowly but surely superseding the "trudge" for the distance swim. All records up to five hundred yards, are held by swimmers who use this stroke.

A Hydroplane Effect.
In the "crawl" the body is kept as close to the surface of the water as possible, so that the effect is one of skimming the surface of the water. With the "crawl" the resistance of the body passing through the water is reduced to a minimum—all the energy expended going to propel the body through the water, instead of keeping it afloat. Heretofore it has been thought of as a "sprinter's stroke" pure and simple, but swimmers have discovered that once the muscles become accustomed to the new mode of action required of them, that it is good for any distance or purpose.

To learn the stroke correctly, it is at first necessary that the beginner perfect himself in the method of breathing, used in this, and all other modern swimming strokes. This has been called "rhythmic breathing," and is simply a process of exhaling through the nose under water, and turning the head to the side clear of the water, inhale through the mouth, this can be practiced almost any place. The arm movement of the "crawl" is similar to that of the "trudge" stroke. The elbows being slightly more bent, and not extended to their full length over the surface, in front. The hands "catch" the water close to and in front of the head, the pull through being deliberate and steady.

Land Drill.
Practice the arm movement on land before getting into the water. Stand with one foot advanced, bend forward at the waist, keeping the elbows slightly bent; place the hands just in front of the head and pull down with the arm stiff until the hand is even with the hip, then lift the hand, and throw the arm and shoulder forward. The movement of the arms is an alternate one and the hands are never placed in the water on the opposite side of the head, the shoulder should be lifted slightly and thrown forward in recovering the arms.

Leg Drill.
To acquire the leg movement, grasp a ladder—in the water—extend the legs as far back as possible, in a straight line with the body, holding the legs loose and the feet pointed, with very little bending of the knees. It is in the leg movement that the "crawl" differs from any other stroke. The legs are moved up and down very rapidly, alternately, striking the water with the top of the feet.

tended straight out in front, and try to propel the body through the water, using the kick as practiced.

At first it will be found somewhat difficult to co-ordinate the arm and leg movement, as there will be a tendency to work the arms as fast as the legs, which should not be done. A good way to start is to allow the legs to trail motionless, swimming with the arms only; it will then be discovered that there is an unconscious up and down movement of the legs, which can gradually be strengthened.

"THE GREAT DIVIDE," the long awaited great American play, which is booked to appear at Myers Theatre on Sunday, August 17 is heralded by the most knowing critics as the most absorbing, intensely dramatic and which separates our East from our human play ever produced. The first two acts are laid in Arizona—in the heart of that great Continental divide, which separates our East from our West—and the third act in Massachusetts. The drama might be called a struggle between the Spirit of the East and the Spirit of the West. It tells the romance of an Eastern woman whose life and habits descend from a long line of Puritan ancestors, and a Western man, as untrammelled in mind and action as the plains and mountains over which he roamed.

Scene from "THE GREAT DIVIDE," at Myers Theatre, Matinee and Night, Sunday, Aug. 17.

The purpose of the play is to show how these two contrasting natures were brought together and to prove that love between man and woman whose methods of living, beliefs and manners have nothing in common, can overcome by the great divide which separates them. The production is one of the most beautiful now touring the West.

The cast is one of the most evenly balanced gathered together by C. S. Primrose, owner of the play and who is responsible for such excellent attractions as "The Thief," "The House of a Thousand Candles," "Paid in Full," etc.

GROCERS ARE BENEFACTORS IN SPIKE OF HIGH PRICES

Protest is Made Against Charge That Retailers are Responsible For High Cost of Living.

Racine, Wis., Aug. 12.—The thirteenth annual convention of the Wisconsin Retail Grocers and General Merchants' association now being held here is considering some phases of the high cost of living. The retailers claim that they have been unjustly accused. W. A. Tharinger of Milwaukee, in an address, declared that the retailer is giving the public more and better service for less money than ever before, while the producer is at the same time getting more for less service. Mr. Tharinger believed that if the same time and energy spent in condemning the retailer were put to use in following the food products from the producer to the retailer it would be only a short time when the retailer would be hailed as a public benefactor.

Henry W. Schwabe of Milwaukee, president of the National Retail Merchants' association, in an address said that the high cost of living is due to living high. He urged all merchants of the state to join the association so as to secure needed legislation and to protect themselves against persons who do not pay bills and faulty collection agencies.

Over 200 merchants, many of them accompanied by their wives, are attending the convention, said to be the largest and most successful ever held by the association. Last night the visitors were guests of former Mayor A. J. Horlick at a luncheon at the Elks' club.

SEX HYGIENE COURSES RESULT IN IMPURITY

Catholic Prelate Attacks Proposed Sex Education Declaring Aim is Not Reached.

"Morbidity, perversity and animality are the results of education of young people in sex hygiene and the aim is not reached," said Archbishop John J. Glennon, youngest Catholic archbishop arrived in Milwaukee for the federation convention Saturday night. "You cannot cure a mental disease by physical methods. Impurity of the mind is not skin deep. The church tries to accomplish the purpose through its appeal to the soul."

"Following the same idea, the church tries rather to lead its people away from temptations of the red light district by reaching the individual instead of trying to legislate the immoral class of people out of existence."

Archbishop Glennon commended the stand of Archbishop Messmer against the passage of the bill authorizing the sterilization of criminals and insane persons.

OWNERS OF APPLE TREES LOADING GUNS WITH SALT

There is trouble in store for the owners of apple trees and there is also a great deal more trouble in store for the boys who are meddling with the apples and the results of their raiding on the neighbor's apple trees has been in many cases very severe.

The doctors say that there is a great deal of cholera morbus in this city and the apple tree owners agree that there must be, for orchard robberies are being reported daily. Janesville has its share of the apple trees and has its share of the boys who like apples well enough to risk a charge of rock salt and an aching "tummy."

Of course nobody ever dies from eating apples but the little robber who is doubled up with severe cramps after a night's raid on the orchard across the street, is under the impression that green apples will be the cause of his passing to the world beyond.

When mothers find their fond pets groaning in agony that is sure proof of their guilt. Generally an attack of cramps cures the culprit.

WEDDING RENEWS OLD FRIENDSHIP

Mrs. George W. Bailey.

The recent marriage in Honolulu of George W. Bailey, son of a wealthy Boston manufacturer, to Miss Alice Cooper, one of the belles of Hawaiian society and the daughter of Judge E. Cooper, renewed a friendship between the fathers of the bride and groom that had lain dormant for twenty-five years.

Judge Cooper and H. B. Bailey went to school together as kids and were inseparable. Judge Cooper went to Honolulu where he became a prominent figure in the public life of the island. Bailey remained in the east and became a wealthy shoe manufacturer. Some months ago Bailey's son met Cooper's daughter, who was on a visit to America. A pretty romance, ending in the wedding this summer, resulted.

LONDON SOCIETY WONDERS WHETHER LORD ROCKSAVAGE AND YOUNG BRIDE WILL GET ALONG TOGETHER; THEY'RE SO UNLIKE

The recent marriage in London of Miss Sybil Sassoon, who inherited millions from her father, the late Sir Edward Sassoon, and Lord Rocksavage has given rise in London society to the question whether they can live happily together. The bride is a Jew; Lord Rocksavage a gentile. Furthermore, no two people could be more unlike in tastes. She is everything that is cultivated and refined, of strong artistic and intellectual tastes, while he is absorbed in sport and has not the slightest interest in art or literature. One of London's smartest young debutantes this year was Adelaide Montgomerie, the youngest daughter of Sir Samuel Montgomerie. Her mother is the eldest daughter of the late Earl of Edlinton.

FIND ERRORS IN THE CREAM TEST SCALES

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Aug. 12.—Wide-spread errors in cream test scales have been discovered in creameries and cheese factories throughout Wisconsin by the inspectors of the state bureau of weights and measures. The investigations have been in progress for six months under the direction of Chief Inspector F. P. Downing of Madison. Mr. Downing has come to the conclusion that the twelve-bottle cream test scale used generally in factories is unfit for work and they will be condemned as rapidly as the inspectors find them. Many creamery owners are changing them of their own accord. Tests on the standard scale in the Madison office of the cream test scale revealed 2½ percent error, and another scale showed error of 9.610 percent. The errors in general range from 3.16 of one percent to 5.9 percent.

It is wrong also to give him the slightest encouragement. Also do not think for a moment that a girl who loves the love he would give to a woman his social equal—the sort of love that makes a heaven of marriage, that would be best to drop him entirely.

BRIEF NOTES FROM THE REALM OF FASHION.

The New York manufacturers report that the prevailing length for fur coats during coming winter, will be from forty to fifty inches.

The easy dressing of the neck will continue this fall, the open neck being finished with fichus or ruffs, frills or wired collars of the Medici order.

A fur that has recently come to the front abroad, and which will be featured by American manufacturers for the coming season, is called dyed fisher-coat, and is made of

Much of the new lingerie shows net trims edged with colored lawn. Pale pink, blue, lavender and white flowers are used, and it is applied to the net in the form of an inch-wide hem.

The sunshade has not enjoyed any very great vogue at Eastern resorts this summer. But the sun shades are most brilliant in color, and many were elaborately trimmed with pleated frills or bands of puffing.

White waistscoats, white sleeveless garments without collar or distinction to a simple linen suit, are much favored by the women of Paris. The waistscoats are sometimes set in a high collar, and are bordered with a flat ruche or a ruche. Others are made of two thicknesses of tulle and left plain, with a border of washing silk in white or some very plain color. The coloring of the material of the coat may be any simple or attractive decoration on the two-piece suit. The material is bound about heavy cord, and is then braided in designs after the manner of soutache braid. New raffia hats, of which the so-called "tour de cou" are more popular than ever. They are made in endless variety. Some of the most attractive are those made of fine silk and colored in different shades. A new style in fur stoles is shown in a New York emporium is a scarf about two and one-quarter yards long, draped at both ends, and a draped stole, which is about nineteen inches wide and lighter in color. It is thought by the manufacturers that this style will be taken up extensively by the smarter dressers the coming season. The featured linings for fur garments. The way, will be for velvet.

A marriage to be successful must be a partnership, where both are interested and willing to work together. A woman if she puts herself to the work can make her marriage successful, far easier, better, than a man. A woman has more influence over her husband than she realizes. A man proves his devotion by working daily, by trying each day to forget himself, is it for his own sake alone? Think of the last promotion John received, why did he come home with this easy smiling, his face as happy as a child? Was it because he had been promoted?

Currant Cream Jelly.—Soak an ounce of gelatine in a cup of water until soft, the nadd a cup of boiling water and stir until the gelatine is all dissolved. Add to this two-thirds of a cup of currant juice and a cup of raspberry juice. Sweeten to taste and stir over the fire until it is boiling hot. Strain and set aside to chill. Add a half cup of powdered sugar to a pint of whipped cream, add to the gelatine mixture and beat until stiff. Turn to a wetted mold and pack in ice and salt for several hours.

Fresh currants well mixed with granulated sugar makes a most delicious fruit to serve for breakfast or any other meal.

NEW COOKING IDEAS AT GAZETTE SCHOOL

LARGE AUDIENCE ATTENDS SECOND DEMONSTRATION—LECTURE TODAY.

INEXPENSIVE RECIPES

Women Interested in Home Economics Can Get Some Valuable Instruction at Free Sessions.

The women who heard Miss Peet give the first of her lectures yesterday must have gone straight home and told their neighbors and friends all about it, for THE GAZETTE'S Cooking School held even a larger audience today. All who came on the say of yesterday's audience were sure to be well repaid, for the lecture and demonstration today were even more interesting in a way than those of Monday.

Miss Peet and her assistant did some very unusual things in the food demonstrations and she told new and no less unusual and interesting facts about the why and wherefore of the greatest of all arts, cooking.

The following menu was then prepared and served:

Saratoga Chips
Cheese Straws
Marshmallow Pudding
Gold Cake
Biscuit.

Miss Peet showed Janesville women

this afternoon how fried foods which have been considered indigestible and unwholesome and as readily digested as baked potatoes or whole wheat breads. Many expressions similar to the following issued from Miss Peet's audience. "We don't have many fried foods at our house, because Henry is indigestible, but I am going to French fry some potatoes and Miss Peet has just told about, and I know that they won't disagree with him." "I never did taste such fine saratoga chips, they don't seem to have that greasy taste, do they?" Miss Peet certainly knows how to make things delicious as well as digestible. All our folks dislike greasy foods and these things that Miss Peet makes are the only fried foods I ever saw that were not greasy." "Why those fried potatoes were as dry and mealy inside as baked potatoes," etc.

Baked Ice Cream.
There was a special meeting tonight in the Assembly hall, at 8 o'clock. Miss Peet will make a cake from one of her famous recipes which will be a gold cake and which will be served with baked ice cream. This is the only time that Miss Peet will be in the hall, and women who work throughout the day, and who have no opportunity to attend the afternoon lectures are especially invited.

Question Box.
Miss Peet opened up the "question box" yesterday afternoon. This was a very interesting feature of the lecture-demonstration. The box was placed in a corner of the hall and in it different members of the audience placed their questions, and at a certain time during the lecture-demonstration Miss Peet opened up the box and answered the questions of full-fledged interrogations. These Miss Peet seized and soon served to her guests in a most inviting and comprehensive manner. Her answers were characteristic of Miss Peet—sensible, matter of fact and to the point. She spoke in the language of the kitchen and sought in no way to confuse her audience with a lot of high-faluting laboratory language. Miss Peet simply and wonderfully good cook with a national reputation, a woman who can explain the entire why and wherefore of the different branches of cookery in a manner which satisfies all types of women.

Tomorrow's Session.
Miss Peet stated that Wednesday's meeting will be a rousing one indeed, as she has a special menu scheduled which will bring into play some of the most interesting theories and principles of her art. Her Mexican Salad is said to be ravishing. Her Coconut Tea Cakes are the talk of every town in which she has given her lecture-demonstration. Owing to the large number of questions Miss Peet will again make doughnuts, and doughnuts "a-la-Peet" are by no means of the "sinker" variety. She says that the day of the "sinker" is over, as the new method for doughnuts to be heavy or indigestible since the new method of frying has made its entrance to Twentieth Century Cooking Circles. Miss Peet desires anyone to refer to her doughnuts as "sinks."

Tomorrow afternoon, the following menu will be prepared and served:

Doughnuts
Fish Balls
Mexican Salad
Hot and Cold Salad Dressing
Coconut Tea Cakes
Currant Tea Ring.

This is one of Miss Peet's most interesting bits of late. She tells how the different foods are made up as wholesome and digestible as baked foods. Miss Peet is also an authority on salads and her ideas upon this subject of cookery are particularly interesting to all who have the opportunity of meeting her.

Each member of her audience is going to have an opportunity of submitting these different delicious delicacies to the taste, and it is unnecessary for the GAZETTE'S Cooking School to brag about its cookery expert, Miss Peet, for instead of telling women for her gifts as a culinary expert, all are invited to come tomorrow afternoon and see for themselves. Owing to the fact that Miss Peet's yesterday lecture-demonstration was attended almost to the capacity limit, all are urged to assemble as close to 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon as possible in order that if necessary, additional seating capacity may be provided before Miss Peet begins the most interesting part of the afternoon's program.

Miss Peet is at the Assembly hall each morning to fill special appointments. She most cordially invites every Janesville woman interested in better food to attend the meeting tomorrow afternoon and see for themselves. Owing to the fact that Miss Peet's yesterday lecture-demonstration was attended almost to the capacity limit, all are urged to assemble as close to 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon as possible in order that if necessary, additional seating capacity may be provided before Miss Peet begins the most interesting part of the afternoon's program.

Pastry Tarts.
1 1/2 cups flour, 1/2 cupful Crisco, 1 teaspoonful salt, 4 tablespoonful water.

Sift the flour and salt and cut the Crisco into the flour with two knives until it is finely divided. Then add the water sparingly mixing it with a knife through the dry materials. Form into dough, roll out on a floured board about 1/4 inch thick. Use a light motion in handling the rolling-pin, and roll from the center outward. Cut and form into little tarts and fill with jelly or lemon filling.

Saratoga Chips.
Cut potatoes on a slicer, soak in cold water one hour, wash thoroughly with cheese-cloth or towels. Dry in deep Crisco. Drain potatoes. Turn on piece of cheese-cloth or towels. Sprinkle with salt.

Marshmallow Pudding.
3 egg whites, beaten stiff, 1 cupful sugar, 1/2 cupful cold water, 1 tablespoonful gelatin, 1/2 cupful boiling water, 1 teaspoonful flavoring.
Soak gelatin in cold water until soft. Add sugar and flavoring, then boiling water. When the mixture begins to set, pour over the beaten egg whites and beat constantly 20 minutes; then pour into mold and allow to set.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

THE BALLOT.

By Howard L. Rann.

THE ballot is a concealed weapon with which the free-born American citizen frustrates the enemies of reform whenever he can get somebody to carry him to the polls in an automobile. If the automobile is not forthcoming he leaves the job of frustrating to someone else.

The ballot is made secret purposely, so that the voter can go into the booth and do as he pleases without a neighbor who has kept his family in bed for a year or two.

Early Rose potatoes for fifteen years. The secret ballot has made it possible for many a man to bite his tongue and show a hand that he would not have shown otherwise.

He has no fear for the ballot in the hands of the man who is too experienced to walk three blocks to the polling place, but who can let it around a billiard table with springing step for four hours at a stretch.

When the candidate makes up his mind that an honest and incorruptible election is about to be held, he will cast his vote so that when it hits the Congressional Record it will sound something like his speech at the Old Soldiers' reunion.

The free and unrestricted use of the ballot has hitherto been predicted upon gender rather than intellect, but a large number of women who appear to be in vigorous and unimpaired health now propose to supply the intellect. Men who have a large family which does not like bakers' bread and canned soup insist that woman's place is acting as chambermaid to a kitchen cabinet, but the indications are that before long two votes will grow around every hearthstone where only one grew before.

INTERESTING EVENTS ARE PLANNED AT KEOKUK

It is practically assured that twenty governors of states east of the Mississippi river will stop off at Keokuk, August 25th to view the water power development there, enroute to the governors' conference at Colorado Springs.

The western conference opens on the 26th, the day set for the official opening of the water power, and for that reason most of the governors could not arrange to stay over a day at Keokuk. Arrangements were made however, to open the works for the inspection of the party a day early.

Governors of Iowa, Illinois and Missouri will probably be in Keokuk during the entire three days of the Mississippi Valley power boat races. The first day will be devoted to the dedication of the water power, with races of "power" boats as an added feature. The 27th and 28th will see the conclusion of the races, while the balance of the week will be devoted to the continuance of the celebration by the commercial interests of Keokuk and Hamilton.

A few days ago the big power dam was illuminated with big arc lights for its entire length, for the first time. When the entire illuminating system is turned on the whole surrounding territory is made almost as bright as day and from the adjoining hills the scene resembles a great torch light procession of giants. This illumination will be one of the evening features of the regatta program.

HOW MRS. BROWN SUFFERED

During Change of Life—How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Well Woman.

Iola, Kansas.—"During the Change of Life I was sick for two years. Before I took your medicine I could not bear the weight of my clothes and was bloated very badly. I doctored with three doctors but they did me no good. They said nature must have its way. My sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I purchased a bottle. Before it was gone the bloating left me and I was not so sore. I continued taking it until I had taken twelve bottles. Now I am stronger than I have been for years and can do all my work, even the washing. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I cannot praise it enough. If more women would take your medicine there would be more healthy women. You may use this letter for the good of others."—Mrs. D. H. Brown, 809 N. Walnut St., Iola, Kan.

Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Cat the Cause of Panic.
The lights went out while most people were at their evening meal at Calcutta, India, the other day. Nervous people feared it was the work of Bengal terrorists and looked about for weapons. In a little while the lights came on again. The incident was due to a cat, which jumped on a transformer at the electric station, making a short circuit. The cat was electrocuted.

"Is it?" retorted Mark coolly. "Very good. Since you choose to take that tone, we will simply call your bluff by arresting her. Neligan, go and get a plain-clothes man. Tell the captain it's for Jim Blake. Bring the man back with you and have him within call."

"We're kind of up against it, aren't we, Tom?" whispered Wanda as Neligan departed on his mission.

"Miss Kelly," said Robertson, eying the girl sharply, "I have conducted many cases, but I confess this puzzles me. There is something in it I cannot understand. We offer you the alternative of prison—Mr. Blake has offered you money. And still you refuse us. There's some strong personal motive that makes you oppose us. Is it?"

"Oh, I've got motive enough in opposing the machine, if it comes to that!" interrupted Wanda. "In the first place, my father was Frank E. Kelly."

Mark's face stiffened with surprise. Gregg and Van Dyke glanced at each other, half-widened. Jim Blake alone gave no sign of disturbance. Glancing amusedly at Wanda from between his slitted eyes, he drawled:

"Frank E. Kelly, hey? So you're trying to get back at me, young woman?"

"Put it that way if you like," returned Wanda fiercely. "But there is more than that. I'm against you and all the dirty machine in every way. Why? Because I've got the bad luck to be one of the people. I'm—"

The telephone jangled into the rush of her talk. Jim Blake picked up the instrument.

"Hello," he queried, "that you, Burns? Instructions, hey? I gave 'em. Keep Winthrop talking till he drops, then get Mullins recognized and let him talk all night if he can; or till I'm ready to break in. Delay—that's the idea—delay! Hold the floor and delay. What? Oh, in a little while now, I guess. Don't worry."

"Miss Kelly," said Mark, "you still refuse to answer my questions?"

"I refuse everything," exclaimed Wanda. "You and the machine are licked to a standstill. And I helped to do it. That's easy worth a good whole year in jail."

"Your motives for working against us?" he insisted. "I mean, are you shielding anyone?"

"Of course I am. I'm shielding the woman you're after."

"Do you know who she is?"

"No."

"Gregg," ordered Robertson, turning to the highly-entertained Kansan, "will you go and get Standish? Ask him to come here."

"All right," ruefully assented Gregg, making sadly for the outer door.

"Don't try to stick it out, girl," exhorted Blake. "You can't afford to get square with me at this price."

"Can't I? Wait and see."

"Do you know Standish, personally?" called Mark.

"No, I don't."

"You want him to win, then, just for political reasons?"

"That's it."

"If any other man than Standish were fighting the organization, you would act as you are now?"

"Yes," said Wanda, thankful to feel her feet planted once more on solid ground, and breathing the more easily for the safer turn the questions were taking.

"And," continued Mark, "if any other woman were in danger you would still oppose us in this way?"

"Yes."

"Then," cried Mark in quick triumph, "you do know who she is!"

"I—no—I didn't say so!" murmured Wanda, wholly at a loss.

"You didn't mean to say so," corrected Mark; "but you admitted it."

"I didn't! I didn't!" confusedly reiterated Wanda.

The long strain was telling on her. Her wits, usually so agile, now moved with palpable effort. The quick brain felt like hot lead. Yet she rallied her lagged-out forces, wearily repeating:

"I didn't!"

"Miss Kelly," urged Mark, "your name won't appear in this. No one need know it was you who put us on the track."

"I won't tell!"

"Then," Mark exclaimed roughly, "we can do nothing more. Van Dyke, telephone down and see if—Oh, here you are, Neligan! Got that plain-clothes man downstairs?"

Neligan nodded. Meanwhile Tom was whispering frenziedly to Wanda.

"Tell me the name, dear. I won't tell the others. But it may show me a way to help you out. And we're in a horrible fix."

"I know that—but I won't tell!" Tom whistled about on the others.

"Dad! Mark!" he said. "Before you go any further I want you to know I've asked Miss Kelly to be my wife."

"No, no!" cried Wanda, trying to throw her open hand across his mouth. "Don't!"

"If she consents," rushed on Tom, "I'll marry her at once! whether in prison or out. I love her. For my sake won't you?"

"I'm very sorry, Tom," replied Mark, "but she's not your wife, yet. And she has her release in her own hands. She has only to speak—"

"Dad!" appealed the boy.

"Not on your worthless life," growled Blake. "That's the very thing she's been working up to all the time. I knew it and I've been waiting for this. Her price is my consent. And I won't pay it. That's what I meant when I said the price was too high."

"If you've any influence with her, Tom," remarked his brother-in-law, "you'll use it to make her tell."

"He hasn't any influence!" retorted Wanda before Tom could speak. "Except that his standing by me against you all proves to me I'm doing right. And—do you think, Jim Blake, that I'd marry a son of yours? Not if he was John D. Rockefeller and E. H. Sothorn rolled into one. Not till I've squared my account with you."

"You won't marry a son of Jim Blake's?" echoed Tom. "Well, after tonight I'm not Jim Blake's son. Here's where I cut loose and—"

"Go as far as you like," vouchsafed his father, outwardly unmoved. "But the girl tells us or else she goes to jail."

"I won't tell!"

"Mark, ring for the officer—"

"There he is at the door," answered Robertson as the buzzer sounded. "Let him in, Neligan."

"I won't tell!"

Neligan opened the door. Standish stood on the threshold. Tom, who had leaned forward pugnaciously, drew back.

"Come in, Mr. Standish," said Mark. "I suppose Gregg explained the situation to you."

"That is why I am here," curtly answered Standish.

"You know, then," went on Mark, "that she is ready to face imprisonment to shield you?"

"That is what Mr. Gregg told me. I don't understand."

"Neither do we. But we thought you might feel like saving her from punishment."

"How?"

"By voting with us on the Mullins bill."

"No."

"You will accept her sacrifice, then?"

"I have no alternative."

Then, before any of them knew of her presence, Grace was in the room and had caught her husband's arm as he lifted the receiver from the hook.

"You shan't do it!" she was crying. "You shall not!"

CHAPTER XX.

The Last Card.

Wanda was first to see her, even before Mark felt the restraining clasp on his arm.

"Mrs. Robertson!" cried the telephone girl in terror; intuition telling her why Grace was there.

"Grace!" called Tom joyously. "Help us! You'll make everything right. You always do."

"Father," said Grace in eager appeal, "you won't go on with this? It is abominable!"

"I'm sorry, daughter; but we've got to. I wish you'd clear out. It's no place—"

"But, father, can't you see? Miss Kelly is protecting some poor woman who has done wrong—and who has repented. Must she be punished so? Must the woman's years of repentance all count for nothing?"

"That's no concern of ours," said Mark. "The woman's possible repentance is between her and her God. We—"

"Then leave her punishment to God. It's not for you to say how she shall suffer. You are striking with the blindness of a man; without dreaming where the blow will fall."

"It will fall where it is deserved. I'm enough of a believer in divine justice to know that."

"It will fall on her husband more heavily than on her."

"It isn't fair! It isn't fair! Mark, your injustice to this girl here is a thousandfold worse than your cruelty to the woman. It is wicked to punish Wanda Kelly for her loyalty in trying to save a friend from disgrace. It's cowardly—unbelievable!"

"Steady, daughter! Steady!" admonished Blake, amazed at his usually well-poised child's vehemence. "You're all worked up over this. It isn't like you to—"

"No," agreed Mark, "it isn't. That is what has been puzzling me."

He was eyeing Grace strangely. The lightning quick and accurate faculty of deduction that had won his first success at the bar was stirring strongly within him.

"Grace," he commanded, his voice still gentle, but with a ring of iron behind its suavity, "look at me!"

Slowly, as by hard physical effort, she raised her panic-widened eyes to meet his gaze.

"You know this woman's name," he declared.

At the mastery that vibrated through his voice and look, she faltered, through no conscious volition of her own.

"Yes."

"You know the name," pursued Mark, still gripping his wife's brain by the magnetism that was almost hypnotic power. "We still have time to use it. Tell it to me."

"No—no!" she murmured distractedly. "I—I can't—I won't."

"Grace!" and now the iron glinted more openly through the velvet sheathing, "do you mean to say you are going to let us face ruin when one word from you would—"

"I tell you, I can't—I can't!"

Mark shifted his attack with unexpected swiftness.

"Mr. Standish is willing," said he.

"Yes."

breath. "You shan't arrest her, Mark. I can't bear it! I—"

"You'll tell!" asked Mark, exultant at the success of his ruse.

"I—yes!"

"Pardon me, Robertson," intervened Standish, as he saw Grace's last barrier break down; "but I advise you to clear the room before you let her speak. Three people here already know the name. I advise you to keep the number as small as possible."

"That is our affair, not yours," retorted Mark. "She shall tell us all. Inside of a few hours the whole country is going to know that name."

"Mark," begged Grace, "let me tell it to you alone!"

"No," refused the husband. "It's too late now to spare any one's feelings. And witnesses are necessary in an affair like this. It concerns us all. And we must move quickly."

"Mr. Standish," he went on with a savage joy that rent away the last remnant of the velvet from the iron beneath. "It's been a long fight. But you couldn't beat the organization. You've been howling for a fight to a finish. This is the finish."

"It is the finish," agreed Standish, his deep voice infinitely sad. "And I am sorry for it. I don't think you need me here any longer, gentlemen. And I will barely have time to reach the capital before the bill comes to a vote. Good night."

He looked furtively at Grace. But she was staring blankly ahead of her with eyes that saw nothing.

"Good night," he repeated. "I would have spared you, Robertson. But you would have it."

There's a lot of bars across it and he says it's just like being in the Zoo."

One day a young colored man of sporty appearance dropped in at a country livery stable and said he needed a job. He looked promising so he was set at work greasing the axles of a buggy.

In a remarkably short space of time he reported the task finished.

"Look here," said the new boss, "do you mean to say you've greased all four of them wheels already?"

"I've greased the front ones."

"And why haven't you greased the two hind ones?"

"Well," said the new man again, "so long's the two front ones goes all right, the two hind ones jes' natchally got to follow."

HEALTH HINTS

Sodium Phosphate is a liver stimulant. It increases the flow of bile which is necessary to the proper digestion of food. Bile also stimulates bowel action. A good many forms of indigestion and constipation are promptly relieved by a few doses of Effervescent Sodium Phosphate taken before breakfast each morning. Jaundice or yellow skin, headaches, dizziness, sour stomach, and other complaints can be traced to the liver. Stimulate the liver and the trouble is gone. Sodium Phosphate that has always been sold at 50c a bottle for a few days we will sell at 25c a bottle. Get it today. Give it a trial. You will be much pleased.
 Mr. Pfennig, our graduate pharmacist and chemist, can give you any other information you wish about this or any other remedy. Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Sts., the drug store that makes a specialty of drugs.
